

Prospector Annual Report 2019

Introduction

The Prospector union catalog has entered its twentieth year of operation and continues as a key service for supporting fifty libraries in the Rocky Mountain region in the sharing of print, audio, media and electronic resources. In addition to its role as a system for the patron initiated borrowing of physical items, the system also acts as a portal to millions of electronic resources including e-books, e-journals, government reports, and other materials. For academic libraries, Prospector is the backbone for the Alliance Shared Print Trust which allows libraries to weed and shape their collections based on the holdings and commitments made by other libraries.

The Prospector system operates on software developed by Innovative Interfaces Inc. called Innovative Resource Sharing (formerly named INN-Reach). As the premier resource sharing system in the region, Prospector is now home to over 15 million unique titles representing over 34 million items. Approximately one third of the unique content in Prospector is electronic resources (e.g. ebooks, ejournals, audio). In most cases users must have a library card to access the e-resources from their local library although some publishers do allow resource sharing for e-content (e.g. Springer and Elsevier ebooks). The Prospector system fulfilled 528,000 requests for books, ebooks, DVDs and CDs during the last twelve months.

SILLVR Pilot Project

Streaming Interlibrary Loan Video Resources (SILLVR) is a collaborative pilot between the Auraria Library, Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries (Alliance), InfoBase (Films On Demand), and Swank Digital Campus. Swank Digital and InfoBase will allow Prospector patrons to request streaming videos. Swank restricts lending to patrons of academic institutions only due to license restrictions with major media studios. The pilot will start in the spring of 2020 and last one year. Auraria, the University of Denver and the University of Wyoming have agreed to be lenders in this pilot project. Auraria, who has spearheaded the project, is working closely with the Alliance and vendors to set up procedures for lending streaming videos through Prospector. This is not the first lending of digital materials through Prospector. Springer e-books have been lent through Prospector since 2011. There is much excitement to embark on this new type of lending which very well could set a trend for lending streaming video through interlibrary loan.

Prospector Upgrades

This past year the Alliance did some custom programming to add wording to WebPac Classic and Encore to indicate which items are requestable through Prospector. Over the years, the number of e-resources in Prospector has grown significantly and it was difficult to know what items were requestable because the request option appeared on each record. Now, the request option displays only if at least one item is available or all items are checked out since holds are permitted. This simple wording has made it much more obvious which items are requestable through Prospector alleviating confusion and frustration among library patrons and staff.

**Request option removed from the electronic resource version*

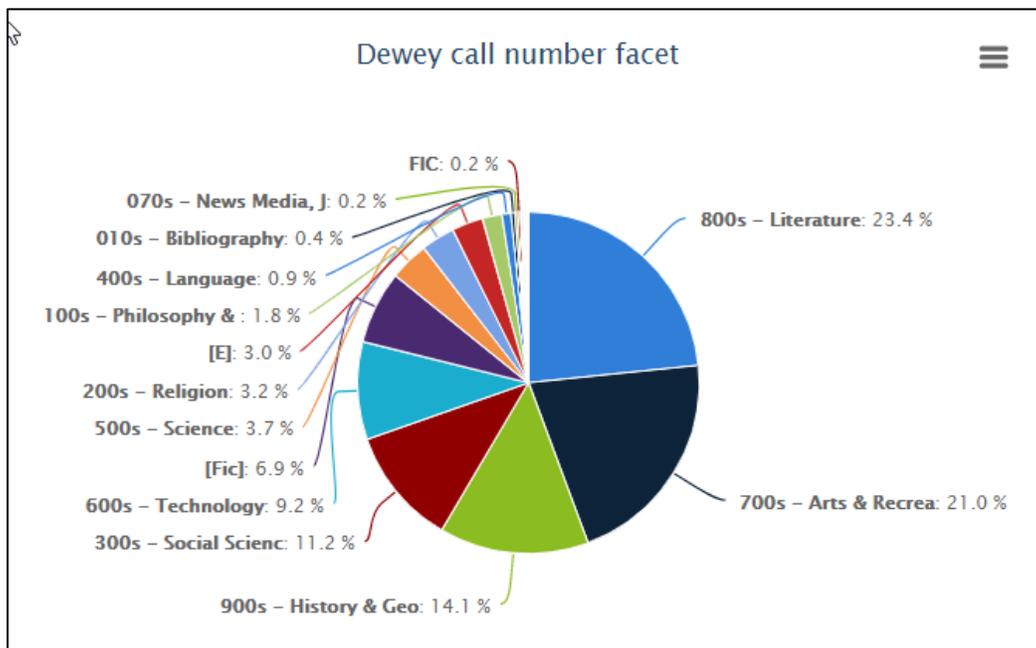

Later this month Prospector and the Resource Sharing Broker (RSB), formerly DCB, will be migrated to new Red Hat 7.0 Linux servers and upgraded to the latest version of INN-Reach and Encore 5.0, which should be available Q4. This upgrade will provide more stability and better performance on the Prospector system.

Library Content Comparison System Update

The Alliance has continued progress on the Gold Rush Library Catalog Comparison System, a tool that allows libraries to compare their bibliographic holdings to other libraries' holdings in the system. Any library in Prospector is permitted to load their records into Gold Rush at no additional cost. This year Flatirons Library Consortium contributed their holdings to the system. They can do overlap analysis amongst their group or with any other library in the system. Please contact the Alliance if your library would like to contribute records to the system. Catalog records need to be loaded as a direct extraction from your integrated library system (rather than taken from Prospector).

An analysis takes only seconds to run and data may be graphically viewed and records may be exported as MARC21, MARC XML or in a delimited format (for loading into Excel). Uses include weeding, collection overlap analysis, space estimates for building/remodeling programs, etc.

New Libraries and System Migrations

Bemis (Littleton) Public Library, the most recent addition to Prospector, joined the system by way of Marmot in July 2019. The United States Air Force Academy is in the process of joining Prospector and should be implemented by the end of the year. Red Rocks Community College will also join Prospector this upcoming year. Colorado College is currently out of Prospector since switching from Millennium to Koha by Bywaters. They will rejoin Prospector through the INN-Reach API which provides a direct connection to Prospector in lieu of the RSB. Colorado College is the first library to rejoin Prospector through the new API. Anythink Library will also be migrating from SirsiDynix to OCLC's Wise and will be out of Prospector during the migration. They will rejoin through the RSB.

The Alliance and State Library continue to discuss Prospector as a possible replacement for the VDX software that the State uses for the state wide interlibrary loan system, SWIFT. If this were to happen, libraries who used SWIFT would now be incorporated into Prospector incrementally over a period of time.

Who is participating in Prospector?

Prospector has 50 academic, public and special libraries with over 100 pick-up locations (branches). It is the most widely used union catalog in the state representing virtually all of the major academic libraries (excluding community colleges and for-profits) and many public libraries.

Google Analytics Overview Statistics- Prospector-Encore

New users-does not reflect an individual user; it simply means a new session was established. Bounce rate indicates percent of users who immediately leave site after entering. It is possible this is because they click on an outbound link to an e-resource or other service such as MOBIUS or WorldCat.

Peer to Peer connection with MOBIUS

The Peer-to-Peer project, which facilitates resource sharing through the Prospector and MOBIUS INN-Reach systems, has been in operation for five years. Mobius has over 70 public academic and special libraries mainly in Missouri, but also includes libraries in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Iowa.

MOBIUS makes up less than 2% of the overall Prospector traffic and while that's not a large number, it still requires some amount of staff time. The largest lenders/borrowers in Prospector tend to do the most transactions with MOBIUS. Peer-to-Peer software doesn't work with the DCB, so libraries connecting in this way aren't able to lend and borrow with MOBIUS.
